Chanda Lear, owner of Star Interiors, offers a peek inside the real world of designing for Greenwich's Botoxed elite. With a staff of unique individuals who have their own quirks and drama, an ex-boyfriend she can't get out of her mind and, just possibly, the perfect British man, she struggles to find peace and maintain her sanity. On her journey to finding her true self, she learns that a life of excess and extravagance isn't as important as one's happiness.
