Two years ago, Law Wyman went undercover for an FBI investigation that went sideways. It cost him both the love of his life and his sanity. The nightmare still haunts him, and so does some unfinished business...Ian Mayne, the son of the man who ruined his life. Two years ago, Ian had to face the truth about how his father spent a lifetime torturing and trafficking LGBTQ teens. Ever since, Ian has done everything he can to make up for his dead father's many sins through his law enforcement job. Too many paid in horrific, horrible ways at his father's hands while Ian kept the truth about his own sexuality hidden. Law is doing all he can to save Ian, but Ian has no idea about Law's history with his dead father. When the truth comes out, it could cost them both everything. Two men...both horrifically haunted by what happened. Is it possible they can find healing together? Only if they have the courage to face their demons and each other...
