It's been said, 'No other success in life can compensate for failure in the home', and 'The greatest work you will do will be within the walls of your own home.' In our time, marriage and parenting are under severe stress making success all the more challenging.

Garth & Sandi's book is a memoir/how-to book on creating a happy home, well-adjusted children and an enduring marriage in the midst of stress. It is packed with stories and events from the lives of Garth, Sandi and their 10 Kids, with suggestions for couples and parents who wish to change their family or married life. The following is from a raving fan of the Garth & Sandi Smith approach to parenting and marriage: 'I was so excited when I heard that Garth and Sandi were putting their marriage and child rearing techniques into a book. I watched first hand as they raised their ten (yes, ten) children into responsible, successful, loving adults who are now parents themselves. What is so different about them is that they actually planned and strategized how they would instill the values and work ethic that was necessary for each child to become the best person he or she could be, empowering them to choose their own 'roads to success'. We live in a world where the majority of children are not 'raised' they just grow up. Because of this so many children grow up without any sense of who they are or what they are capable of accomplishing. Young marrieds, parents and grandparents will benefit from the Smith's tried and true principles for raising and training children from a very young age to adults. Along with the experience of raising ten remarkable children, they also have created an enduring, happy marriage of 44 years, along with 29 grandchildren. I guess we could say they have some experience in these matters; they've been there, done that.' Debbie O.
