Their advent was marked with a booming explosion that rocked the Earth. That was more than 30 years ago. They came expecting no resistance, but when humanity fought back they dug in and the war between Humanity and the Robotics still continues. No negotiations, no diplomacy... only war. One of their pilot falls from the sky, and finds itself trapped beneath a tree, unable to escape. Then it reveals itself to a young boy hoping for help. Only by gaining his trust will it be able to free itself, but gaining that trust will prove more difficult than expected.
