

Red for Murder

Genre:	Uncategorized
Published:	1957 by Geoffrey Bles, Ltd
Pages:	256
Language	English
Author:	Harold Kemp
Goodreads Rating:	4.00

Red for Murder.pdf

Red for Murder.epub

For centuries the coming of age of the heir to the House of Falcongill had been the occasion of extensive celebrations at Cuff Hall, the family's country house in North Yorkshire. Even in these days of crippling death duties custom demanded that the 21st birthday of Tony Vane-Cuff should be celebrated with a great party for the villagers, the roasting of an ox, and most important of all, the wearing of the family jewels by the Marchioness of Falcongill. This last, according to Detective Inspector James Brent, was asking for trouble. He hardly expected, however, that the trouble would involve a theft, two violent deaths and a surgical operation; but it did.